

Damian Boldt

Florida State University
Department of Political Science
Bellamy Building
Tallahassee, Florida 32306

Email: dboldt@fsu.edu
Homepage: <https://www.damianboldt.com/home>

Education

Ph.D (in progress) Political Science, Florida State University, 2019 – present.

M.Sc. Political Science, Florida State University, 2021.

B.A. Political Science, Southeastern Louisiana University, 2018.

Research

Working Papers

"Are Democracies Inherently Peaceful? Re-Evaluating the Monadic Democratic Peace with Causal Inference"

Areas of Interest

International conflict: the democratic peace, the onset of interstate conflict, the effects of interstate conflict. Causal inference: TSCS matching, quasi-experimental methods, experiments.

Teaching

Undergraduate

Introduction to International Relations (Instructor, Summer 2021; Teaching Assistant, Spring 2020)

Understanding Political Science Research (Teaching Assistant, Fall 2021)

Other Appointments

Graduate Assistant, Florida State University Institute of Politics (Fall 2020 & Spring 2021)

Ph.D. Course Work

Fall 2019

Research Design

Political Science Data Analysis

Fundamentals of Political Research

Seminar in International Relations: International Politics

Spring 2020

Game Theory
Quantitative Analysis in Political Science
Core Seminar in Comparative Politics

Fall 2020

Advanced Game Theory
Advanced Quantitative Analysis in Political Science
International Conflict

Spring 2021

Comparative Political Economy
Political Psychology & IR
Causal Inference and Experimental Methods

Fall 2021

International Political Economy
Comparative Institutions

Additional Training

ICPSR Summer Program (2020)
Data Matters (2021)

Statistical Programming Languages

R
STATA